

January 2012 - Commentary

During March 2009 the base rate was cut by 0.5% down to 0.5% p.a.

No change in any month since then.

If inflation is being fuelled by global oil and commodity prices, then an interest rate rise would have little effect and might be a stumbling block to growth.

