

With all of the markers on this chart lying between 1% and 12% the continuous rise in the total amount outstanding over the last two years is clearly apparent. That said, there has been a distinct downward trend in the last 18 months, but the annual rate of growth is currently still at around the 1% level. Undoubtedly this could fall even further in the months ahead. The rolling average mirrors the gradual reduction - now only marginally above the 2% mark.
